If you're moving and considering new friendships:

Don't be afraid to start conversations and ask questions. Part of being a good friend is to have good listening skills and to show interest.

Offer kindness, and show you care.

Get involved with activities that are interesting to you. Join a club, a study group, or a sport's organization.

The playground or park may be a good place to connect with others. Sometimes an on-line Zoom or game playing can be fun.

It's normal to feel a bit awkward when you're in a new place meeting others, but remember, as much as we like to connect with old friends, we all enjoy making new ones.
